CAREER

Bernadette Szőcs began playing at a young age and rapidly rose through the youth ranks to become one of Europe's top table tennis players. She first broke through on the senior scene with international titles and continued to solidify her reputation with high finishes in ITTF and WTT events. Szöcs has competed in three Olympic Games (2016, 2020, 2024), with consistent world ranking success – reaching a career-high of World No. 8 in April 2024 and remaining among the top 20 by late 2025. Her 2025 season further cemented her status with a World Championships doubles silver and national dominance.

LEGACY AND FUTURE GOALS

Bernadette Szőcs stands as a leading figure in Romanian table tennis, recognized for her impact on elevating the nation's presence on the international stage. Her achievements include multiple major European titles and a historic World Championships women's doubles silver medal in 2025, further reinforcing her status as a benchmark athlete for the next generation. She is regarded for her resilience, competitive consistency, and influence as a role model for young players, particularly within women's sport.

Looking ahead, while no formal public statements outline her long-term plans, her competitive trajectory indicates continued pursuit of World and Olympic medals and ambitions to improve upon her world ranking. With sustained top-tier performances and ongoing commitment to international competition, she remains positioned to further expand her legacy in the coming seasons.
