CAREER

Prithika Pavade was introduced to table tennis at the age of six by her father, Vijayan Pavade, a former regional-level player from Pondicherry, India. She began her training at the Bourget Table Tennis Club in Le Bourget, France, quickly gaining recognition for her speed and intelligence on the table. Her dedication and talent propelled her through the national ranks, leading to her international debut and subsequent successes. Balancing her athletic career with academics, Prithika pursued natural sciences studies at Sorbonne Université, benefiting from the institution's support for high-level athletes. In 2025, she advanced into senior contention with consistent appearances in the latter stages of WTT events and a Round of 16 result at the World Championships, reinforcing her position among Europe's developing elite and confirming her trajectory toward higher international standings.

LEGACY AND FUTURE GOALS

Prithika Pavade is regarded as a leading representative of a new generation of European women players breaking into the global elite. Her disciplined, tactical approach, competitive resilience, and willingness to evolve her game underpin her growing influence on French table tennis. She is seen as an important figure for the sport's future in France, inspiring younger athletes through her development path and international presence.

Looking ahead, her goals include pursuing individual medals at World Championships and future Olympic cycles (with focus on the 2028 Los Angeles Olympic Games), climbing the world rankings toward the top tier, and securing senior titles at major WTT events, including Champions and Grand Smash tournaments.
